

Wisconsin 2009 Two Year College Physics Report

In the Technical College System, two thousand nine can be summed up as “no new is good news”. After extensive changes in previous years that negatively affected enrollments in physics courses, 2009 was relatively stable. I am not aware of any reductions or additions in physics course offerings at the Technical College level.

I attended the national meeting at Ann Arbor participating in a pre-convention workshop. I urge all physics instructors to attend these meeting especially when they are within driving distance.
